

AUSTRALIAN DESIGNED TYRE STANDS UP TO THE TEST

Needing a reliable tyre for his John Deere 9400 tractor, Geoff Collis (left) fitted a set of Australian-designed Harvest tyres on the recommendation of Tyrepower Moree manager Geoff McGrath (right). The tyres are working so well Geoff fitted Harvest tyres to his Case tractor as well.

Finding a reliable tractor tyre that stands up to Australia's harsh conditions has proven a challenge for many Australian farmers.

With 7,200 acres to farm, including 3,700 acres of wheat to sow every year, Geoff Collis can't afford to waste time and money replacing tyres on his tractors.

Geoff has tried many well-known brands of tyres over the 40 years he's been working the land of his "Bellview" property at Collarenbri, Northern NSW, but none have stood up to the test.

In May 2008, unhappy with the performance of the latest tyres on his John Deere 9400 tractor that needed replacing, Geoff asked his local Tyrepower store manager Geoff McGrath to recommend a new, reliable tyre and a set of eight Harvest R1 tyres were fitted.

Two years later, have the Harvest tyres given Geoff the reliability he's been looking for? "I have had no troubles with the tyres, they are doing a good job and are coming into their third sowing season. I have run many different brands of tyres in the past and none have been able to stand up to the test. The Harvest tyres are working so well I asked Geoff to fit another set to my Case tractor. We can't afford to go into a sowing season with poor tyres and I am sure the Harvest will do the job nicely. Pulling a 60 foot Flexi-Coil at around 10.5 km, I estimate the Harvest tyres have done around 1,400 to 1,500 hours and I am very pleased with them."
